

BEST IN TEST
for walking

Meindl Air Revolution Lite

These Meindl boots fall into the stiffer, more robust category of fabric footwear, attempting to be a viable three-season boot. They have the stiffest sole of any of the boots tested by quite a way. Although not quite the heaviest on test, they did feel heavy on the foot – a sense exacerbated by their stiffness. The tread pattern has very deep lugs that really improve grip in grimy fields and on hillsides. There is an excellent amount of padding throughout the entire top section, and particularly around the ankle and tongue. While the boots are stiff, on hard ground the padding in the midsoles helps to smooth out the bumps and make walking on road sections that bit easier.

Sizes: 6-12 Upper: Velour leather/mesh Waterproof/breathable
Lining: Gore-Tex Sole: Meindl Multigrip2 by Vibram Weight: 1,580g
Women's Version: Yes Contact: 015395 60214; www.meindl.co.uk

THERE ARE ACTUALLY TWO TONGUES, WITH THE FOAM INNER DESIGNED TO AID VENTING, WHILE THE PADDED TONGUE HELPS TO IMPROVE THE FIT.

A GREAT THREE SEASON BOOT THAT COULD REPLACE A LEATHER BOOT FOR MOST USES, ALTHOUGH IT MAY BE A LITTLE TOO STIFF FOR SOME.

MEINDL